Going concern

The Financial Statements have been prepared on a going concern basis. The Directors consider that the Company will continue to exist for the purpose of the industrial disease claims which are expected to have a settlement period between 30 to 40 years. The Company is not expected to incur cash outflow in the settlement period based on formal documentation with the immediate parent company and historical evidence in the Group's practices to settle the claims on behalf of the Company. The Directors do not expect there to be any further financial obligations incurred for at least 12 months from the date of approval of these Financial Statements.

Rolls-Royce plc, a parent undertaking, has provided written confirmation of its intention to continue to provide financial support to the Company such that the Company is able to operate as a going concern and to settle their liabilities as they fall due for a period of at least 12 months from the date of signing these Financial Statements. After considering the above, the Directors are satisfied that it remains appropriate to prepare the Company Financial Statements on a going concern basis.

Critical accounting judgements and key sources of estimation uncertainty

The preparation of the Financial Statements requires the use of certain critical accounting estimates. It also requires management to exercise its judgement in the process of applying the accounting policies. The areas involving a higher degree of judgement or complexity, or areas where assumptions and estimates are significant to the Financial Statements are as follows:

Key estimates and judgements – Industrial diseases provision

The provision relies on assumptions and estimates used by the external actuaries in calculating the likely provision required for industrial diseases liabilities. The provision consists of an amount for known claims, with a best estimate of the most likely outcome based on current known information, and an estimate for future claims not yet reported. These assumptions include discount rates, assessment of inflation and the number of future claims. The overall liability is calculated for the immediate parent company group and the best estimate for the Company is calculated based on the % contribution from previous employees employed by the Company as a proportion of total incurred claims. The provision that has been recognised as current or non-current is based on the % of claims settled in the 12 months prior as an estimate for the amount expected to be utilised in the next 12 months. The outstanding provision as at 31 December 2022 is £100,000 (2021 audited: £164,000). Further detail can be found in note 7.

The Company makes judgement in recognising a reimbursement asset for the full amount of the liability recognised as these claims are paid for by the immediate parent Company on behalf of the Company. The Company deems that it is virtually certain that reimbursement will be received based on formal documentation with the immediate parent Company and historical evidence of the Group's practices.

Functional currency transactions and balances

Items included in the Financial Statements of the Company are measured using the currency of the primary economic environment in which the Company operates ('the functional currency'). The Financial Statements are presented in 'Pounds Sterling' (£), which is also the Company's functional currency.

Financial assets

Classification

Financial assets

Financial assets relate to intercompany receivables. This financial asset is calculated at amortised cost.

Impairment

IFRS 9 Financial Instruments sets out the basis for the accounting of expected credit losses (ECLs) on financial assets. The Company has adopted the simplified approach to provide for ECLs, measuring the lifetime loss allowance at a probability weighted amount that considers reasonable and supportable information about past events, current conditions and forecasts of future economic conditions of customers.

Trade and other receivables

Trade and other receivables consists of amounts owed by group undertakings recognised initially at the transaction price. They are subsequently measured at amortised cost using the effective interest method, less expected credit losses. If collection is expected in one year or less, or in the normal operating cycle of the business if longer, they are classified as current assets. If not, they are presented as non-current assets.

Provisions for liabilities

Provisions are recognised when the Company has a present obligation as a result of a past event, and it is probable that the Company will be required to settle that obligation. Provisions are measured at the Directors' best estimate of the expenditure required to settle the obligation at the Balance Sheet date and are discounted to present value where the effect is material.

Called up share capital

Ordinary shares are classified as equity. Equity instruments are measured at the fair value of the cash or other resources received or receivable, net of the direct costs of issuing the equity instruments.

Rounding of amounts

All amounts in the Financial Statements have been rounded to the nearest thousand Pound Sterling unless otherwise stated.
