Explanation of some legal terms used in this Client Security Agreement

This Client Security Agreement contains a number of legal terms. It is important that we use these terms because they have a special meaning coder the law, However, we explain below, the meaning of those terms.

mortgage means that you transfer ownership of property to us to secure your obligation to pay us money. If you fail to pay us we can self your property. Once you repay that money, we will transfer the property back to you:

charge means that you give us rights in property to secure your obligation to pay us money. Once you repay that money, we will release our rights to the property. These rights give us the right to sell your property if you fail to pay us. A charge may be a fixed charge or a floating charge. If a charge is a fixed charge, you have no right to deal with, the property without our consent. If a charge is a floating charge, you have the right to deal with the property until we give you notice, or the floating charge automatically becomes a fixed charge.

pledge means we take possession of your property to secure your obligation to pay us money. We will keep the property until you repay that money:

lien means we are entitled to retain possession of property that we hold for you to secure your obligation to pay us money. We will only release the property when you repay that money.

receiver means a person who we may appoint to enforce the Security under this Client Security Agreement on our behalf.

power of attorney means that you appoint us as your representative to do certain things. Our actions as attorney for you will be binding on you. Under this Agreement, you appoint us as your attorney to do things which you would otherwise be required to do under this Client Security Agreement.
