Figure 1. The proposed model for the development of the self-concept of the child. The model shows the relationship between the child's self-concept and the child's environment. The child's self-concept is influenced by the child's environment, which includes the child's family, school, and community. The child's self-concept is also influenced by the child's own experiences and interactions with the environment. The model suggests that the child's self-concept is a dynamic process that evolves over time and is shaped by the child's environment.
