Risk assessment

During the year, the Finance and Policy Committee and the Board of Governors carry out an assessment of the business, operational and financial risks. Subsequent to the findings of the assessment the policies, procedures and reporting regimes are reviewed and amended as necessary to manage and reduce the identified risks.

Risk is identified across five criterial governance, operational, financial, external, and compliance. The Risk Register is reviewed on a monthly basis whereby each risk is assessed in terms of likelihood and impact, mitigation strategies are drawn up, responsibility allocated, and progress is monitored. Reports are made to Finance and Policy Committee on both current risks and mitigated risks. Mitigation processes that require draw down from budget are held to account through this process.

The Board has delegated clear lines of authority to the BACP staff and has involved the staff in the recognition of risk in their activities

Aims and Objectives

The Association's objectives are

- (i) to promote and provide education and training for counsellors and/or psychotherapists working in either professional or voluntary settings, whether full or part time, with a view to raising the standards of counselling/psychotherapy for the benefit of the community and in particular for those who are the recipients of counselling/psychotherapy, and
- (ii) to advance the education of the public in the part that counselling and/or psychotherapy can play generally and in particular to meet the needs of those members of society where development and participation in society is impaired by mental, physical or social handicap or disability

The income and property of the Association are used for the promotion of the aims and objectives summarised above. Importantly for BACP's members, and the general public, BACP is a registered charity, legally recognised as established and existing for charitable purposes only. Accordingly the funds raised do not profit the Association, its employees or Governors and are used to achieve the above objectives, developing the Association for the benefit of its members and the community it serves.

In setting the Association's vision, mission and objectives, and ongoing strategic planning and related activity, the Board has given careful consideration to the Charity Commission's general guidance on public benefit, and in particular to raising public awareness of the benefits of counselling and psychotherapy, increasing public knowledge, understanding and awareness of therapy, sourcing evidence on the effectiveness and impact of therapy and enabling wider access to safe and accountable practice

To fulfil the Association's objectives BACP seeks to advise, inform and influence national and international policy and procedures concerned with counselling and psychotherapy, offering information and guidance to those involved in the process. Through regular consultation the Association offers advice to, and is consulted by, governments, professional bodies, funding organisations, teaching institutions and other stakeholders throughout the UK on all counselling and psychotherapy matters.

A key element of BACP's role is to educate a field of stakeholders drawn from the public, the members, legislators and policy developers

The Association sets, promotes and maintains standards for the profession, and is strongly committed to high practice standards and the protection of the public, as demonstrated through its successful application for accreditation of its voluntary register

BACP's Ethical Framework for Good Practice in Counselling and Psychotherapy and the Professional Conduct Procedure ensure that its members abide by an accepted and approved code of conduct and accountability. This Ethical Framework provides a core frame of reference for members to use in their relations with clients, colleagues, fellow members and the wider community. It safeguards both practitioners and members of the public alike and facilitates the management of any alleged breaches of conduct.

BACP sets recognised and robust standards for the delivery of education and training. Through developing and promoting various accreditation schemes BACP sets the benchmark for the highest standards of counsellor/psychotherapist training and practice thus enabling members to achieve a recognised level of excellence.

The on line Finding a Therapist Directory specifically gives guidance to members of the public on choosing the most appropriate counsellor or psychotherapist according to their needs as well as information on counselling services and specialist organisations

BACP aims to undertake and commission research to encourage informed practice, to help researchers develop new skills in the field of research methods, and to support the generation and dissemination of new knowledge to promote a better understanding of counselling and psychotherapy and its effects. This work is underpinned by the annual Research Conference, the Research Journal and other publications.

Principal achievements for the year and priorities for 2016 and beyond

Supporting and developing practice

We were delighted to present the new Ethical Framework for the Counselling Professions Written by Professor Tim Bond, in conjunction with many others and following extensive member consultation, the new Ethical Framework takes us to a new and exciting level in ethical thinking in our profession. Whilst the new Ethical Framework will not be formally adopted until 1 July 2016, it was published early to allow time for members, organisations, training providers, stakeholders and clients alike to familiarise themselves with the changes and to begin to develop practice in accordance with the principles outlined

Ethical practice not only sits at the heart of what counsellors and psychotherapists do, it has also informed the work of BACP for many years. From the early days of the Code of Ethics and Practice through to the current Ethical Framework for Good Practice in Counselling and Psychotherapy, our members have been encouraged not only to think about the good practice parameters of their work but additionally to embark on an ethical engagement to ensure what is offered to clients meets the highest professional standards of practice and accountability

At the heart of this revision, there has been a consultation process that has shaped how Professor Tim Bond approached the rewriting of our new Ethical Framework. New technologies have made a more inclusive and thorough process of consultation possible than ever before. Webinars enabled ideas to be discussed at a formative stage and began to shape how new developments ought to be approached. These were captured in a draft version circulated to all members of our Association.

A systematic analysis of over 10,000 itemised responses from members have shaped this final version of the Ethical Framework Additional consultations with our divisions, employers, closely related professional bodies and regulatory bodies including the Professional Standards Authority have also been taken into account A great deal of thought has also been given to the client expectations of professional ethics

Throughout the year significant activity took place in the commissioning and production of our Good Practice in Action Resources Here is the full list

Ethical Framework for the Counselling Professions supplementary guidance

Working Online

Published

During the year we were able to launch, enhance and develop several new competences for the profession. These included competences for humanistic counselling with young people (11-18 years); counselling for depression, and telephone and e-counselling. We were also able to make available two curricula, telephone and e-counselling, and training the trainers telephone and e-counselling.

Furthermore we also supported members with a strong and broad portfolio of events. During the financial year we put on 146 events and managed to present ideas, thinking and learning to over 5,900 delegates. Our newer professional development days, 'working with' series of events and online conferences proved particularly popular with members.

Looking forward: a new strategy

During the year the Association undertook a significant strategic review Involving volunteers, staff, stakeholders and members, a wide consultation process was followed by significant deliberation and priority setting by the Board. We wanted to ensure that we were capable of developing a strategy and roadmap for the future of the Association that we could all commit to Launched in April 2016, the strategy is set out below

Counselling Changes Lives

BACP's primary purpose is to support counsellors and help them better serve their clients. Our Association was formed nearly 40 years ago by a group of counsellors who were passionate about the value of counselling and its potential to improve the lives of individuals and communities. This passion and commitment, and the knowledge that counselling changes lives, is still at the heart of everything we do

In the 12 months leading up to April 2016, we undertook a strategic review of our Association's mission, values and objectives. We consulted with our members to find out what they wanted from us and how we could best support them. This feedback resulted in our new strategy, a restructure of our business and a reprioritising of our resources.

What we do

Our desired position: We act in the interest of the public as a professional, relevant, credible and communicative organisation for the counselling professions, bound by a common purpose, underpinned by clear philosophy and transparent values

Our purpose: We will advocate the role and relevance of the practice of the counselling professions in improving psychological wellbeing and mental health, and promoting social justice, in our contemporary and diverse communities

How we'll achieve change

We've drawn up a series of 'strategic intents' to help us achieve our position and purpose. These are the elements of our work that have been identified through consultation with our members as being the most important. The intents are themselves supported by a comprehensive operational plan, and our resources have been aligned in order that we can concentrate on these vital elements of our work.

Our strategic intents are to

• Promote expertise in the counselling professions to enable confidence in BACP and its members

- Use our resources efficiently and effectively to fulfil our internal and external strategic objectives to maximise impact
- Be alert to change and encourage innovation in a fast moving world, and our policy and interventions will be informed and evidence based
- Commission, undertake and encourage research and relationships to ensure that we can champion best practice in the counselling professions
- Uphold the highest standards of differentiated practice, ensuring that our standards are fit for purpose and communicable to clients and commissioners
- Educate the public about the practice and benefits of the counselling professions and learn from people how to develop responsive services
- Position the profession in the minds of commissioners and employers, to argue the case for best practice and the benefits of the counselling professions
- Develop relationships with the wider professions and all our stakeholders
- Define the scope and standards of training and practice for the counselling professions, drawing on evidence and experience, reflected in differentiated membership categories
- Commit to the highest standards of customer service, public engagement and membership engagement

Key themes

As well as our strategic intents, we've identified three key areas of work we'll be focusing on. These are

- Older people exploring the role of counselling in improving the lives of older people, and promoting the value of talking therapies to this group
- Children, young people and families continuing our successful work in this area, including promoting the importance of early intervention and joined-up mental health services
- Four nations exploring how we can better serve our members based in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland and influencing governing bodies throughout the UK

These themes will form the backbone of our work over the next five years. They too, have been chosen following consultation with our members and stakeholders. You can expect to see our commitment to these areas of work reflected in our campaign and policy activities, in our research work and in the range of services and benefits we provide for our members.

What does all this mean for members?

You and your clients are at the heart of everything we do and supporting you is central to our philosophy and values. We work hard to enable you to access resources to help you develop and maintain effective and competent practice. In line with our new strategic direction, we'll be looking to further improve the services and resources we offer you, making your membership more relevant and better value for money.

Raising standards across the counselling professions, and promoting high standards, have always been high priorities for us. We seek to ensure people have access to the best, evidence-based, standards of practice in the counselling professions. By renewing our commitment to raising the profile of our members in the media, with commissioners, policy makers and the public, we hope to improve your professional credibility and employment prospects.

Our promise to you

This sharing of our new strategic direction marks the beginning of a journey of improvement. There is a lot for us to do and we're looking forward to sharing our progress with you regularly, and getting your feedback on how we're doing

We will seek through our membership and public engagement to champion the counselling professions, confident in the notion that 'Counselling Changes Lives'

Looking forward: a new structure

The year also saw significant activity in restructuring teams at BACP, with departments brought together and new ways of working developed to ensure the delivery of the strategy. BACP also committed to reviewing its governance, and an initial governance review was commissioned and is due to report back for consideration by the Board later in 2016. Both staff and governance reviews were commissioned with the aim of ensuring BACP is best organised to deliver on the strategy.

Significant spend was also commissioned in terms of technological infrastructure. Roadmaps were developed to overhaul BACP's ICT functionality, and commission both a new central database and a new central website capable of delivering to both members and the general public.

Representing the profession

During the year BACP sought to represent the profession to a range of stakeholders. On a policy front, the general election provided a focus point for activity. A series of webpages were created during the general election campaign to encourage and assist members to interact with their candidates. During the course of the year, BACP has responded to 30 consultations. New policy briefings were created on several important subjects, allowing us to effectively communicate on a wider number of issues and have wider reach with opinion-formers, school based counselling for all in England, looking after our students' mental health, suicide and self-harm, psychological therapies, prevention, and risk factors, veterans, and psychological therapies, and counter-terrorism and Security Act, implications for members.

Through BACP's parliamentary activity around school-based counselling, a commitment to a strategy for school-based counselling was secured within the Labour Party's election manifesto " we will set out a strategy that all children who need it can access school-based counselling" Post-election BACP secured a meeting with Nic Dakin MP, Shadow Schools Minister, and organised for him to visit a school with a counselling service

In Scotland, we communicated with the Liberal Democrats, Conservatives and Labour Party in Scotland, meeting with MSPs from each ahead of the Scottish Parliamentary elections. BACP secured the Minister to speak at a BACP - hosted fringe event on the subject of children's mental health at the Scottish National Party Conference. The event was over-capacity and led to media coverage in the Scottish Mail on Sunday. The meeting also helped secure a meeting with a prominent SNP MSP, Mark McDonald who heads the Cross-Party Groups on Children and Young People as well as Mental Health. We have since had contact from SNP Councillors who attended the event, requesting more information on school counselling in Scotland.

BACP secured a parliamentary question to the Northern Ireland Health Minister, Shona Hamilton MLA, around the number of counsellors and psychotherapists working in the country

On a media front BACP remained proactive, responding to an increasing number of enquiries, expanding our network of spokespeople, and contributing to a wide and varied media interest in our profession

Registration and conduct

Registration

At the end of the year BACP's register held 29,973 registrants. During that year 88 assessment days were held in 10 locations. The Certificate of Proficiency, developed to test the knowledge and ethical decision-making of members and to set a standard for entry to the Register, was passed by 4,581 members, with 553 fails. Throughout the year we have given thought to how best make the Certificate accessible with work beginning on developing a pilot scheme for online proctoring.

Audit remains an integral function of our Register. This year 434 registrants were selected for audit, a number that grows in line with the number of registrants. BACP sets an audit percentage of 2.6%, and believes that this offers us a good picture of the CPD and supervision of our registrants. The results of the process gave support to how impressed the Association was by the professionalism and commitment of our registrants in upholding and improving standards.

Professional Conduct Procedure (PCP) and cases

BACP continues to protect the public, the counselling professions and the organisation itself through its PCP. The Register has an increasing workload in relation to professional conduct. Throughout the year work was undertaken on developing a new Professional Conduct Procedure which will be introduced in July 2016. This has been widely consulted upon and it is hoped it will lead to a more streamlined process, resulting in a better use of resources.

Ask Kathleen Service

The Ask Kathleen Service continues to support people in resolving issues around their therapy experience. The Register actively promoted this service to clients and stakeholders in the interests of public protection. It is a service that is seen as increasingly valuable and important. This year it received 790 calls, an increase from 144 four years ago.

Research

In line with an evolving strategy to develop work around older people, a review of the literature was commissioned entitled 'Counselling and Psychotherapy for Older People A Narrative Review of the Literature' which was undertaken by Dr Alison Brettle and Nicola Paris

Our PhD Membership fee waiver scheme again proved popular and we were able to support 12 members through this scheme that seeks to support the Association's research aims. Similarly all three research grants were awarded for this financial year. Two pieces of research have been contracted and are underway. Client perceptions of hindering experiences in CBT within IAPT serving an inner city/deprived area, and 'A comparison of good and poor outcome cases of person-centred and emotion-focused therapies to identify therapist variables that support socially anxious clients, engagement in the early stages of trauma focused therapy. Some projects funded through this scheme have laid the groundwork to secure funding for future studies, which would not otherwise have been possible.

Membership of the CYP PRN stands at 753 and continues to grow Approximately 50 practitioners (from circa nine services) are submitting data via COMMIT (data collection platform) with three further services expressing an interest to join and use this facility,

Volunteers

The continuing and significant part played by volunteers in achieving the Association's objectives is recognised and warmly acknowledged. Due to the many volunteers that serve on its committees, forums and working groups, BACP is able to carry out a wide variety of work that is relied on by the members and stakeholders.

Honoraria payments made to volunteers during the year amounted to £960 (2015 - £780)

Looking forward, specific initiatives planned to deliver or commence over the next 12 months in addition to usual activity include:

- The commissioning of a replacement member database and the revamp and modernisation of the association websites. The new website will bring together all BACP content for members, stakeholders and clients and look to create an enhanced and more contemporary experience.
- Full upgrade and modernisation of BACP's IT frameworks
- Competencies and Core Curriculums Further development in the areas of older people, children and young people and workplace counselling and dissemination of previously completed curriculums
- The refinement and launch of the Volunteer Framework,

- A review and modernisation of the Governance of the association, from Committee management through to electronic election processes

Review of Financial Position

The Association remains in a healthy financial position in line with its reserves policy. This position allowed the association to undertake and support a broad range of activities in relation to charitable objectives.

Further details about the financial position are included in the Review of the Business section of the Strategic Report

Reserves Policy

The Board of Governors reviews the reserves policy annually, the current policy is that the free reserves should be at a level to allow for future unanticipated fluctuations in income and expenditure, and to cover the estimated running costs for six months. This is currently estimated at about £2 million.

BACP through its risk assessment process commissioned expert advice on its insurance coverage. Whilst adequate, the review indicated that some risks were currently uninsurable and a degree of self-insurance might be prudent. As a result of this the governors have agreed to reallocate the balance of the former Special Projects fund to an Insurance Fund and increase this to £1,000,000.

The free reserves for this purpose are the total reserves, less restricted and designated funds (to the extent that they have been committed), less the insurance (designated) fund, less tangible fixed assets, plus the membership fees received in advance (which would not be repayable if the Charity was wound up)

At 31 March 2016 the level of the Charity's free reserves was

| Total reservesLess                      | £ | 4,395,071        |
|---|---|------------------|
| Restricted funds                            |   | 30,894           |
| Designated funds (that have been committed) |   | 137,967          |
| Insurance Fund                              |   | 1,000,000        |
| Tangible fixed assets                       |   | 3,219,060        |
| •   |   | 7,150            |
| Plus  |   |                  |
| Membership fees received in advance         |   | 1,913,823 |
| Free reserves                               |   | 1,920,973        |

The level of the free reserves is therefore currently in line with the policy

STRATEGIC REPORT

Review of the business

The main sources of funding for the association are membership subscriptions, Finding a Therapist Directory entry fees, accreditation fees and income from BACP's trading subsidiary. Each of these sources of funding remained robust during the course of the year, although each was subject to operating in increasingly competitive markets. The sources of funding sustain the costs incurred in delivering the association's key objectives through representation of the profession, developing research, the provision of journals, conferences and events, professional standards, register and conduct processes.

The association maintains a sound practice of review and planning, and as such total incoming resources for the year increased by £107,083 to £8,205,369 (1 3%) Expenditure decreased by £253,743 to £7,831,411 (3%) The surplus for the year after a loss on investments of £23,013 is £350,945 Total funds increased accordingly to £4,395,071

During the year the Board instructed KBPB to move to an ethical investment portfolio on a best endeavours basis in line with the BACP policy on ethical investment. The investment objectives criterion is based on maximum total gross return, by generating growth through capital appreciation in the value of shares and the reinvestment of income as generated from dividends and complying with the BACP policy on ethical investment. Investment performance during the year has been better than expected, all be it with a small loss, given the significant drop in the main markets and the relatively short time the new investment portfolio has had to be effective. BACP are comfortable that its investments are now in line with its own values.

The Association has been undertaking a long-term fundamental re-organisation of its membership structure, continuing to align its grades to both its and the Professional Standards Authorities register. As such, membership numbers remain strong with modest growth continuing despite the closure of the Associate grade and enhanced requirements to remain in membership. The Association also introduced a new retired category to ensure members could remain close to the work of the organisation after they stopped practising. Membership numbers as at 31 March 2016 were 43,611 increasing by 0.8%. Whilst this growth has been less than in recent years, the Association was aware of the impact of the re-organisation, planned for it, and this growth was in line with expectations. Membership numbers are closely monitored throughout the year.

The year focused on the development of the new Ethical Framework for the Counselling Professions Ethical practice sits at the heart of what counsellors and psychotherapists do, and the Ethical framework sets out the highest professional standards of practice and accountability. Developed through extensive consultation, the new Ethical Framework was published early, together with a series of resources, to allow members and stakeholders to familiarize themselves with the changes ahead of a 2016 launch. The new Ethical Framework is supported by the development of a significant body of resources. The extensive list of Good Practice in Action Resources were made available to members on BACP's website.

Financial year 2015/16 has been very much a year of preparing the ground for the new strategy and commencing projects to enable the modernisation of systems and processes which will incur significant spend over the next 18 to 24 months. The restructuring carried out during the year will realise cost savings that will enable the systems modernisation and will release resources to enable the funding of new initiatives. The costs of the restructuring at £225,697 have been contained without causing a deficit for the year.

Therefore there are sufficient funds available to carry out the new Strategic Plan of the Association over the forthcoming year

Description of principle risks and uncertainties

During the year, the Finance and Policy Committee and the Board of Governors carry out an assessment of the business, operational and financial risks. Subsequent to the findings of the assessment the policies, procedures and reporting regimes are reviewed and amended as necessary to manage and reduce the identified risks. The Trustees have assessed the charity by reviewing budgets, plans, financial and operational risks and the external environment for the forthcoming year. The Trustees are satisfied that there are no material uncertainties around the continuing relevance of the charity or its ability to continue

Risk is identified across five criteria governance, operational, financial, external; and compliance. The Risk Register is reviewed on a monthly basis whereby each risk is assessed in terms of likelihood and impact, mitigation strategies are drawn up, responsibility allocated, and progress is monitored. Reports are made to Finance and Policy Committee on both current risks and mitigated risks. Mitigation processes that require draw down from budget are held to account through this process.

The primary risk and uncertainty concerned the conclusion of the old strategic plan. As such, the Board of Governors tasked staff to develop a new evidence-based strategy for the association. Significant investment in understanding the perspectives of stakeholders helped the association develop and articulate a new strategy and direction, together with a broader focus and a re-articulation of values for launch in 2016. This new strategy, together with its re-prioritisation, commitments and performance indicators was signed off by the Board towards the close of the year. Significant investment was allocated to ensuring staff teams understood the new direction and strategy.

In order to underpin the strategy the association restructured itself, starting first with a re-organisation of the senior management team. During this period several long serving staff members left BACP, and the association was brought together with a new focus on external relationships and internal effectiveness, with teams being brought together to ensure effective and efficient operations. A new senior management team was formed, bringing together new people from outside the organisation and promoting from within. This new senior team focused on the implementation of the new strategy. A robust review of activities saw a second phase of restructuring to enable the association to be able to resource its strategy.

During the year a series of audits were commissioned to review the technological infrastructure of the association, alongside its digital capabilities and websites. The review produced a roadmap for a modernisation of the associations' technology, processes, communications and websites. The Finance and Policy Committee and the Board of Governors committed to a programme of significant development and replacement that will see the implementation of better websites, engagement with members, stakeholders, clients and the public, and improved efficiencies in the association's processes

The Strategic Report has been approved by the trustees

The restructure carried out during the year regrettably resulted in a number of redundancies. The total cost of the process to include redundancy pay notice pay and employer a costs is autocipated to be £225 697. Where actual weekly pay raster exceeded the statutory maximum weekly rate this was used to calculate the redundancy payment the utilising the respective statutory number of weekls entitlement. This has been funded by surrestricted funds.

BACP had committed up to £175 000 of their reserves as funding for the BACP Research Foundation, which is limited by guarantee and is a wholly owned subsidiary of BACP. A further £450,000 has been set aside for the purposes of an RCT (random control trial) on depression which is currently being undertaken.

BACP through its risk assessment process commissioned expert advice on its insurance coverage. Whilst adequate, the review indicated that some risks were currently uninsurable and a degree of self-insurance might be prudent. As a result of this the governors have agreed to reallocate the balance of the former Special Projects fund to an Insurance Fund and increase this to £1,000,000.

BACP successfully delivered an e-learning package to the Department of Health work continues with the DH on updating and enhancing the content. During the year £6,926 (2015 £130,677) of the Restricted funds were utilised
