Figure 1. A schematic diagram of the experimental setup. The subject is seated in a chair and views the target through a video camera. The target is a small object (e.g., a ball) that is suspended in the air. The subject's hand is positioned near the target. The distance between the hand and the target is the reach distance. The subject is instructed to move the hand towards the target and catch it. The video camera records the hand's position and the target's position. The video is then analyzed to determine the reach distance and the time taken to catch the target.
