PART 1 - GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE COMPANY'S ACTIVITIES AND IMPACT

In the space provided below, please insert a general account of the company's activities in the financial year to which the report relates, including a description of how they have benefited the community.

In 2019-2020 the Architecture Fringe again grew in scale and ambition, hosting over 100 projects from 270 contributors across 68 venues and welcomed 45,200 visitors

Over the past 5 years through hard work, ambition and a dedicated sense of purpose the Architecture Fringe has emerged at the forefront of progressive discussion and is evolving into being the key critical catalyst for change within architecture and the built environment in Scotland.

Activities included:

- The hosting of over 100 projects on our open platform, nurturing the development of these projects via open meetups, and listing them in our printed programme and on our web platform.
- Open meet-ups this year included events in Edinburgh, Glasgow (as in previous years) and Inverness, reaching out beyond the Central belt
- This included the development and delivery of 14 core projects, based on a range of themes such as the quality of social housing or profiling the work of people of colour and the queer community.
- Increase in audience numbers from 4,850 to 45,200
- Core events at two hubs, Lighthouse in Glasgow and Custom Lane in Edinburgh
- The encouragement and mutual-support of other initiatives and organisations such as Test Unit - an internationally known architectural summer school held in Glasgow; Voices Of Experience - a living archive and provocative platform seeking to discover and reveal previously forgotten professional women within the built environment to celebrate and pass on their insight and experience to the next generation of women; and Crumble - a self-started student-led in-print architectural journal providing considered reflection and critique with an ever-growing international stockist list.
- The encouragement of a critical appraisal and debate of the role of architecture and its promotion through workshop at the RIAS (Royal Incorporation of Architects in Scotland) Conventions 2019

The Architecture Fringe is first and foremost public-facing, encouraging, supporting and enabling the sector and wider culture of architecture to provoke, reflect and respond to our ever-changing cultural and socio-political contexts. The ways in which this year's activities have benefited the community are:

- Through support of practicing architects and other creative professionals (and students) to share their work in a critical manner relevant to the current socio-political climate.
- Strengthening of the network of creative professionals
- Education of the wider public (through exhibitions, talks and tours) on a broad variety of built environment topics including accessibility of urban environments for people with hidden and visible disabilities, and those who may experience discrimination for other reasons.
- Awareness-raising of such barriers in the built environment as above, to both professionals and policymakers.

(If applicable, please just state "A social audit report covering these points is attached").

(Please continue on separate continuation sheet if necessary.)

PART 2 – CONSULTATION WITH STAKEHOLDERS – Please indicate who the company's stakeholders are; how the stakeholders have been consulted and what action, if any, has the company taken in response to feedback from its consultations? If there has been no consultation, this should be made clear.

The Architecture Fringe's stakeholders are:

- The co-producers who develop the core programme
- The independent producers whose work the platform hosts
- The audience – practitioners
- The audience – public
- The audience – other, such as elected representatives and policymakers

The producers are consulted at regular production meetings, and open meetups that are facilitated to nurture ideas and respond to needs of the community.

The audiences are consulted through feedback forms returned at events, and through the interaction on social media. We responded to many aspects of feedback from 2018-2019 in order to refine our activities for 2019-2020. We have increased our geographical reach by including open call meetings in Inverness and have managed to secure a fully accessible venue for our Glasgow hub. We are working towards increased diversity, accessibility across our venues and sustainable delivery of the next Architecture Fringe.
