Following the decision that we should no longer act in connection with your company audit requirements we are writing to confirm our understanding of our remaining responsibilities

- I The last annual accounts which we were to submit to Companies House were those for the year ended 31 August 2014. These have been submitted to Companies House and filed by them.
- II You will be responsible for any further enquiries on these accounts, unless we are specifically instructed to the contrary.
- III We have already written to you, offering our resignation. It is your responsibility to file our statement with Companies House.
- IV We have no further responsibility for dealing with your current requirements and statutory affairs in respect of any time limits the expiry for which falls on or after 18 February 2015.
- V The Companies Act 2006 imposes a requirement on companies to retain accounting records for a specified period. It is our policy not to destroy any such records held on a client's behalf during the statutory period of retention but we may do so after that period, unless instructed by you otherwise.

We cannot over-emphasise the importance of ensuring that you make prompt arrangements to maintain the conduct of your statutory affairs. This firm cannot be held responsible for any matters arising from the failure to make adequate alternative arrangements with effect from the date of this letter. While we may forward information to you, as and when specifically instructed, we reserve the right to charge for doing so.

Yours faithfully
