The directors have given consideration to the unprecedented impact of COVID-19 on the business with an immediate review of trade and plans to preserve the solvency of the business. The business continues to trade satisfactorily with no significant adverse cash flow impact given the nature of the trade. The business also has cash reserves to draw on if required. The directors will continue to review the business position and react accordingly. The directors, having taken these steps, believe that the business has sufficient prospect of trade and cash reserves to continue to trade for a period of no less than twelve months from the approval of these accounts.
