CMS Legal Notice on Use of DocuSign

DocuSign provides cloud-based electronic signature services to facilitate the electronic review and execution of documents.

CMS Cameron McKenna Nabarro Olswang LLP (CMS) uses DocuSign. As part of the electronic signature process facilitated by DocuSign, individuals receive an email from DocuSign with the CMS branding inviting them to visit the DocuSign website to review and/or sign one or more documents. Once documents have been fully executed, signatories and other named individuals may receive a copy of the executed documents.

To do this for documents that you have been asked to execute using DocuSign, CMS has to: (1) upload a copy of any documents that are to be signed or reviewed by you; and (2) enter some basic personal details about you (including your name and email address).

There are some key points that you need to understand about your use of DocuSign – including what personal data of yours may be collected and used:

1. Signing documents, whether physically or electronically, can have important legal consequences. If CMS are not your legal representative then you should seek independent legal advice before signing any documents through DocuSign.
2. If you have any concerns about the suitability of DocuSign for the documents you have been asked to sign or approve, or any queries about how DocuSign collect, process and manage your personal data, please speak to your legal representative or contact DocuSign directly: <https://www.docusign.co.uk/company/contact-us>
3. As DocuSign is a third-party platform, CMS takes no responsibility for your use of the DocuSign platform. Other than: (i) inputting your personal data as required for you to review / execute the documents (as authorised by you or your legal representative); and (ii) retaining a copy of any executed documents (and any personal data they contain) along with the DocuSign certificate of completion (as evidence of what was signed and when), CMS does not control or process any of your personal data through DocuSign. This includes any collection and use by DocuSign and/or their subcontractors of personal data that you may provide to DocuSign and/or their sub-contractors through the electronic signature process.
4. By using DocuSign through CMS, you agree that CMS may upload the relevant documents and input your personal data required for you (and any other signatories and/or witnesses to the documents) to review and/or execute on the DocuSign platform.

You also agree that CMS may download and store an electronic copy of executed documents and the DocuSign certificates of completion in our own document management system and retain these in accordance with our document retention policies.

5. As DocuSign is a third-party platform, CMS has no control over how DocuSign provides its services or manages any personal data. CMS shall have no liability for your use of DocuSign; the availability / unavailability of the DocuSign platform; or any information security measures used by DocuSign.
6. By using DocuSign to facilitate the review/execution of your documents, you acknowledge that you understand that DocuSign's Terms of Use and Privacy Policy apply automatically when you use the DocuSign platform. For some specific services (for example if you need to execute a document using a “Qualified Electronic Signature”) DocuSign also uses sub-contractors in the provision of the services. CMS has no control over these terms / policies and DocuSign may change them at any time.

Please read the relevant Terms of Use and Privacy Policies to ensure that these are acceptable to you:

- DocuSign Trust Center: <https://www.docusign.com/trust/privacy>
- DocuSign Terms of Use: <https://www.docusign.co.uk/company/terms-and-conditions/web>
- DocuSign Privacy Policy: <https://www.docusign.com/company/privacy-policy>
- IDNow's privacy policy and terms of use (these apply if you are using DocuSign's Qualified Electronic Signature service, which requires identity verification): <https://go.test.idnow.de/privacy> and <https://go.test.idnow.de/terms>

7. By using DocuSign, you acknowledge that the personal information of the signatories and witnesses to documents to be reviewed / executed on the DocuSign platform will be visible to: (i) other users who have been asked to review or execute the documents, (ii) CMS and other individuals who receive a copy of the documents from DocuSign. The personal data that will be visible is principally names, email addresses, mobile 'phone numbers, titles and in some cases postal addresses – but other personal data may be required depending on the documents. Personal data, such as IP addresses of devices used when users electronically sign documents may be recorded in the certificate of completion.
8. If you believe you have been given access to any documents or data through DocuSign that should not have been accessible to you, you must immediately notify CMS and comply with any instructions from CMS to delete the documents or data. You must not download or make any copies of that data or forward the information to any other person.

9. This Legal Notice is governed by and interpreted in accordance with the laws of England and Wales.
